The Deep

Dive into the wonderful world of The Deep, the number one show on CBBC! Bloomsbury is launching a major tie-in publishing programme with four titles in 2018: a handbook, a sticker activity book and original fiction titles with all-new adventures never seen before on screen.

The Deep follows the Nektons, a family of daring underwater explorers. With state-of-the-art technology and an unquenchable thirst for discovery, they explore uncharted areas of the Earth's oceans to unravel the mysteries of the deep, a place where monsters swim through sunken cities, where pirates lurk amidst floating markets and where a mysterious group of Guardians hide long-lost secrets.

- · Season one aired in over 130 territories globally. Season two has been picked up by all top broadcasters and season three will air in the UK and Australia in early 2019
- · A hit around the world, The Deep was the number one animated show for six- to nine-year-olds in the UK, number one in Australia across all networks, number one on Nickelodeon in Greece and in the top three shows in Germany, Sweden, Norway and Finland
- Season one of The Deep averaged at least 31 per cent more viewers per episode in the UK than other big shows such as Ninjago and Adventure Time
- The Deep won 2017's Best New Series from Kidscreen, among many other awards
- Technicolor is launching a line of The Deep toys and merchandise, with a dedicated Amazon landing page
- · An immersive The Deep experience was hosted by over twenty Sea Life partners in the UK and Germany, with more to come in the future
- Extensive social media presence across YouTube, Instagram and Facebook
- Originally created by New York Times bestselling comic book author Tom Taylor, who has written for Marvel and Star Wars
- · Perfect for fans of the hit TV series The Deep, but also has a broad appeal beyond the TV series with an engaging world, relatable characters and strong storylines

Everest: The Remarkable Story of Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay

Alexandra Stewart

Joe Todd-Stanton

This is the story of Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay two unlikely heroes whose grit, determination and modesty captured the hearts and imaginations of the world, as they became the first ever to set foot on the top of Everest.

- · A breathtaking story of two very different, yet equally determined, men who triumphed where so many others had failed before, climbing the world's highest mountain where temperatures can plunge to an icy -60°C and powerful winds of 100 mph buffet the summit for most of the year
- · Join these two unlikely heroes on the most amazing of adventures retelling the true stories behind their childhoods and the events that led up to their climb towards triumph. Find out how the friendship of a small town beekeeper and former vakherder turned them into two global heroes, as well as the impact of hundreds of men and women that helped them achieve their goal. But triumphs can be marred with tragedy as not everyone who climbs Everest survives ...
- A captivating narrative of the great race to Everest, to publish in time for the centenary of Edmund Hillary's birth
- · Written by the wonderfully talented Alexandra Stewart. She read Modern History at Oxford University before training to be a iournalist
- Super fresh, contemporary and expressive illustrations by the talented Joe Todd-Stanton, author and illustrator of The Secret of Black Rock (Flying Eye Books), winner of the Waterstones Children's illustrated book prize 2018 and longlisted for the 2018 CILIP Kate Greenaway Medal

The Funny Life of Teachers

James Campbell

Rob Jones

Ever wondered what teachers do when they're not in the classroom? Are they undercover detectives, champion roller-blade dancers or do they spend their evenings playing with their 576 cats? Whether you love or loathe your teachers, want to become one when you grow up or don't give two figs about your teacher but simply love a HILARIOUS read, this book is for you.

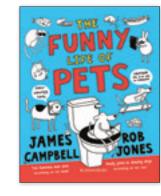

- Uncover the ridiculously funny life of teachers (and some things that have nothing to do with teachers but are still splendidly funny) according to James Campbell, comedian extraordinaire.
 This book has hilarious answers to your burning questions about all kinds of teachers, from the old and nasty ones to the smelly and huge ones and the extraordinary things they do when they're not in the classroom, like roll around on the carpet, eat a humongous cake and cast spells
- A hybrid fact AND fiction book, following the success of The Funny Life of Pets
- James Campbell decided to be a writer when he was seven, once he had decided that he could not be a duck. James travels around primary schools, telling stories and encouraging children to write their own stuff
- Rob Jones is an extremely funny young illustrator. In May 2015, his first book Bernard won The People's Book Prize

A stunning deluxe edition of Jessie Burton's feminist fairytale, including an exclusive print in a beautiful illustrated slipcase illustrated by Angela Barrett will be published simultaneously with our hardback edition.

The Restless Girls

Jessie Burton

Angela Barrett

From the acclaimed internationally bestselling author Jessie Burton comes her first story for children – a feminist fairytale for all ages of family, sisterhood, imagination and bravery.

For her twelve daughters, Queen Laurelia's death in a motor car accident is a disaster beyond losing a mother. Their father, King Alberto, cannot bear the idea of the princesses ever being in danger and decides his daughters must be kept safe at all costs. Those costs include their lessons, their possessions and, most importantly, their freedom. But the eldest, Princess Frida, will not bend to his will without a fight and she still has one possession her father can't take – her power of imagination. And so, with little but wits and ingenuity to rely on, Frida and her sisters begin their fight to be allowed to live.

- Inspired by The Twelve Dancing Princesses, this is a truly magical fairytale with a feminist message that will resonate with 21st-century readers
- Full of dancing, jazz music and sparkling lights, the alchemy between Jessie Burton's text and Angela Barrett's illustrations is storytelling gold
- Jessie Burton is the author of two internationally bestselling novels, The Miniaturist and The Muse, which have been translated into thirty-eight languages
- The Miniaturist has been adapted into a critically acclaimed BBC television drama

My Parents Cancelled My Birthday

Jo Simmons Nathan Reed

Tom's parents have cancelled his birthday. Not just any birthday, either. His eleventh birthday, which is, according to family lore, his Lucky Birthday. Tom had been looking forward to his Lucky Birthday his whole life. He couldn't wait for all the treats and surprises his parents had planned; couldn't wait to hold the most awesome party-slashsleepover ever.

But then Tiny the pig fell off the garage roof and crushed Nana Maureen's Chihuahua. Then Nana thought the dog was haunting the house. And Dad hit his head. And Tom's sister Meg decided she was cursed by the Tooth Fairy. And Mum made a very bad dog food Bolognese and ... well, things begin to unravel and Tom's birthday is off.

Tom cannot let this happen! He must fix his family to save his birthday, which proves harder than he had expected, and involves bacon sandwiches, chicken whispering, an enormous dog called Major and a few gladiators too.

- · Perfectly pitched to capture the huge appetite for humour-led fiction among 7+ readers
- · Ideal for fans of Pamela Butchart and a brilliant stepping stone up to older fiction by David Baddiel and David Solomons
- · The third laugh-out-loud funny standalone from Jo Simmons, following her hilarious middle-grade titles / Swapped My Brother on the Internet, which published January 2018 and The Dodo Made Me Do It, which published August 2018
- · Jo Simmons has a unique talent for relating to kids and what they want to read about. Previously tackling sibling relationships and summer holiday boredom, she now turns her attention to birthdays. Her books have universal appeal and are packed
- · Featuring black and white illustrations by Nathan Reed throughout, in a brilliantly fun, accessible and commercial package

The Imp Child

T.C. Shelley

The first book in a deeply magical adventure trilogy that explores what it means to be human. Perfect for fans of Sophie Anderson's The House with Chicken Legs and Jennifer Bell's The Uncommoners.

Everyone knows that fairies are born from a baby's first laugh, but barely anyone knows that monsters are born from a person's last sigh ...

The Imp Child is born from a mixture of both and so, to the disgust of his fellow monsters, he looks just like a human boy (though admittedly most humans can't scale sheer walls at will or hear a squirrel's heartbeat miles away). He's a child with feet in both worlds and he doesn't know where he fits: the grumpy gargoyles who adopt him only want him to steal chocolate for them from the nearby shops.

All the Imp Child wants is a place that feels like home and a name all of his own. But Thunderguts, king of the ogres, has a very different destiny in mind for the Imp Child. Thunderguts believes the Imp Child is key to allowing monster-kind to come aboveground to rule the human world, and he's searching high and low for him ...

- · The first in a major new fantasy adventure trilogy for readers aged 9+ from a hugely exciting debut author
- · Like a deeper, darker, funnier Spiderwick Chronicles, T.C. Shelley's writing uses traditional folklore in magical, modern and witty ways
- · Book 2 and Book 3 coming in 2020 and 2021
- •T.C. Shellev is an Australian. Growing up with a pet kangaroo. swimming with crocodiles and knowing how to hunt and find edible insects all prove this. She refuses to eat cockroaches (most days), but crocodiles, lizards and scorpions are still on the menu. This is her first novel

The Storm Keeper's Island #2

Catherine Doyle

The heart-stopping, highly anticipated sequel to The Storm Keeper's Island sees the new Storm Keeper of Arranmore battling to find his powers as the enemy closes in ...

Fionn Boyle has been the Storm Keeper of Arranmore for less than six months when the island begins to fail. Illness seeps across the land, giving rise to widespread fear and suspicion, but Fionn is powerless to help. The Storm Keeper's magic has deserted him. Even his sister Tara has more control over the island than he does, and she won't let him forget it. Worse still, his grandfather's candle - the one that roots his memory in the here and now – is burning low. Fionn and Malachy Boyle are both running out of time.

When the evil sorceress Morrigan's soul stalkers begin to return, Fionn must find a way to summon Dagda's army of merrows to protect the island. But how can he call upon a vast number of ferocious sea creatures without any magic? Or the faintest idea of where to look for them? The race to save Arranmore has begun.

We Are Blood and Thunder

Kesia Lupo

A stunning YA fantasy from a fantastic new talent.

In a sealed-off city, it begins with a hunt. A young woman, Lena, running for her life, convicted of being a mage and sentenced to death. Her only way to survive is to trust those she has been brought up to fear - those with magic.

On the other side of the locked gates is a masked lady, Constance, determined to find a way back in. She knows only too well how the people of Duke's Forest loathe magic. Years ago she escaped before her powers were discovered. But now she won't hide who she is any longer.

A powerful and terrifying storm cloud unites them. It descends over the dukedom and devastates much in its wake. But this is more than a thunderstorm. This is a spell. and the truth behind why it has been cast is more sinister than anyone can imagine ...

Only Lena and Constance hold the key to destroying the spell. Though neither of them realise it, they need each other. They are the blood and they have the thunder within.

- · Thrilling, stirring and completely original; We Are Blood and Thunder is set to be the YA fantasy debut of 2019
- · With two strong female leads, this complete page-turner of an adventure keeps you gripped until the very last twist

The Gifted, The Talented and Me

William Sutcliffe

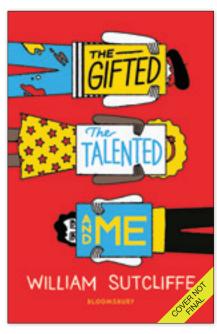

Whip-smart, warm and hilariously well observed comedy from internationally bestselling author William Sutcliffe this is Adrian Mole for the Snowflake Generation.

Fifteen-year-old Sam isn't special. He's not a famous vlogger, he's never gone viral, and he doesn't want to be the Next Big Thing. What he likes most is chatting to his friends and having a bit of a kickabout.

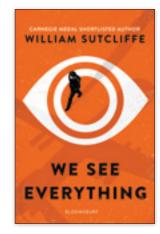

None of which was a problem until Dad got rich and Mum made the whole family move to London. Now Sam is being made to go to the North London Academy for the Gifted and Talented, where every student is too busy planning Hollywood domination or starting alt-metal psychedelica crossover bands or making clothes out of bathmats to give someone as normal as him the time of day. Can Sam navigate his way through the weirdness and find a way to be himself?

A brilliant modern satire about fitting in, falling out and staying true to your own averageness.

- · Laugh-out-loud funny, instantly recognisable and hugely relatable. Not since The Inbetweeners has a narrative captured teenage growing pains so convincingly and with such a fresh eye
- Full of the warm, generous observations on key life experiences that made his adult novel Are You Experienced? an international bestseller

When Lann escapes an attack from a savage wyrewolf on the eve of his fourteenth birthday, it becomes clear that he is no ordinary boy. He is to wield the legendary Dreadblade, an ancient sword forged to defeat terrible monsters from the Void. But why has he been chosen and what makes him so special?

The power of the old gods is failing and, unbeknownst to Lann, powerful and terrible forces are conspiring against humanity. As nightmares threaten to become reality, he will be thrust into a battle against the greatest darkness his world has ever faced. It is time for him to face his destiny.

- Steve Feasey lives in Hertfordshire with his wife and children. He says he didn't learn much at school but he was always a voracious reader. His first book, Changeling, was shortlisted for the Waterstones Prize and became a successful series. He is also the author of the acclaimed Mutant City series. This is his first novel set in the world of Stromgard
- This novel has all the hallmarks of a classic: gods, monsters, necromancers, witches and enchanted blades come together to create one of the most original new worlds in YA fantasy
- While this novel can be read as a standalone, the stunning sequel will publish in 2020

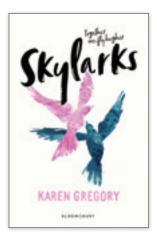

Skylarks

Karen Gregory

Karen Gregory's heartfelt, stirring novel about love against the odds is perfect for readers of Lisa Williamson, Sara Barnard and Sarah Crossan.

When she was little, Joni used to have dreams that she could fly. But these days her feet are firmly on the ground – they have to be when money's tight and her dad can't work and the whole family has to pull together to keep afloat. But then she meets Annabel. Annabel is everything Joni isn't. Her dad owns half the town and money has never been a worry. But despite being different, there's a spark between them. Though Joni barely believes it at first, she thinks they might be falling in love ...

- The captivating and thought-provoking second novel from Karen Gregory, a powerful and authentic new voice in YA fiction
- Karen deals with hard-hitting issues with pitch-perfect sensitivity, a deft lightness of touch and an irresistible wry humour that readers will fall in love with
- Touches on big subjects accessibly and with authenticity diverse relationships, social injustice and the poverty gap and how it affects teenagers

The Wickerlight

Mary Watson

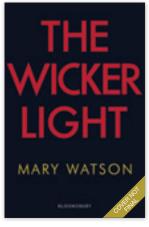

Mary Watson's eerie, magical thriller is the story of a dead girl, her sister and the boy who can unlock the truth of what happened that cold, fateful night.

It's been months since Laila was found lifeless on the village green, not a mark on her. The rumours talk of drugs. Or suicide. Yet neither is true and someone must know it.

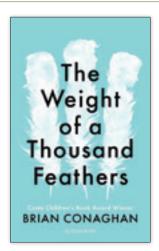

Now Laila's sister Zara is ready to pick up the trail. But retracing her sister's footsteps leads her to the dangerous heart of an ancient magical feud and all too unwittingly onto the same path that led her sister to the village green ...

- Thrilling, atmospheric and filled with ancient magic, this spellbinding story is perfect for fans of Frances Hardinge and Emily Bain Murphy's The Disappearances
- The second YA novel from an author with incredible talent takes readers back to the world of The Wren Hunt with both new characters and old
- Mary Watson has won the Caine Prize for African Writing and was also on the Hay Festival's Africa39 list of influential writers from sub-Saharan Africa

The Dragon Warrior

Katie 7hao

As a member of the Jade Society, twelve-year-old Faryn Liu dreams of becoming a warrior for the gods, just like her missing father. But the Society shuns Faryn and her brother Alex due to their half-Chinese heritage, forcing them to train in secret.

Then, during an errand into San Francisco's Chinatown, Faryn stumbles into a battle with a demon and helps defeat it. As it turns out, she just might be the fabled Heaven Breaker, a general destined to work for the Jade Emperor himself, command an army of dragons and lead a war against dangerous demons. That is, if she can prove her worth and find the island of the Immortals before the last day of the Lunar New Year.

With Alex and other unlikely allies at her side, Faryn sets off on a daring quest across various Chinatowns. But becoming the Heaven Breaker will require more sacrifices than she first realised ... What will Faryn be willing to give up to reach the island and claim her destiny?

- · A richly imagined, contemporary middle-grade fantasy inspired by Chinese mythology, set in modern Chinatown and grounded with a relatable, kick-butt female protagonist
- · Perfect for fans of Roshani Chokshi and Savatani DasGupta
- · An author with a personal connection to the story: Katie was inspired by her desire to see more Chinese characters featured in books, as well as her own experience feeling like a misfit even in a community where she was expected to

Extraordinary Birds

Sandy Stark-McGinnis

Eleven-year-old December knows everything about birds, and everything about getting kicked out of foster homes. All she has of her biological mum is the book she left behind, The Complete Guide to Birds, Volume One, and a message: 'In flight is where you'll find me.' December believes she's truly a bird, waiting for the day she transforms and flies away to reunite with her real home. The scar on her back must be where her wings have started to blossom - she just needs to practise and to find the right tree. It's the only story that makes sense.

When she's placed with Eleanor, a new foster mum who runs a taxidermy business and volunteers at a wildlife rescue centre, December begins to see herself and what home means in a new light. But the story she tells herself about her past is what's kept December going this long, and she doesn't know if she can let go of it ... even if changing her story might mean that she can finally find a place where she belongs.

- · For fans of The Thing About Jellyfish, Counting by 7s and Fish in a Tree, a heartbreaking and hopeful debut novel with a memorable voice and character
- · A literary debut with commercial appeal: follows a relatable young girl who faces obstacles and uses her own ingenuity to find a path forward
- · Contemporary topic: December is a a foster kid on a unique journey to find home. Will appeal to fans of One for the Murphys
- Debut author with a pitch-perfect voice: Sandy is an elementary school teacher with true insight into the minds of young people

Some Places More Than Others

Renée Watson

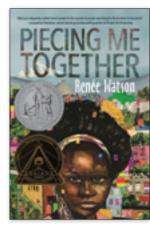

All Amara wants for her birthday is to visit her father's family in Harlem, New York City. Her wish comes true when her dad decides to bring her along on a business trip to NYC. She can't wait to finally meet her cousins in person and stay in the house where her father grew up. Maybe this will help her understand her family and herself in new ways. Plus, she wants to spend quality time with her dad.

But the city is not exactly what Amara thought it would be, with crowded subways, suffocating sidewalks and a father who is too busy to spend time with her. However, as she learns more and more about Harlem, her father and his family history, she realises how, in some ways more than others, she can connect with him and this other home and family.

- · A heart-warming and bright-eyed middle-grade novel exploring a father-daughter relationship and Harlem — its history, culture, arts and people
- · Renée's Piecing Me Together was a Newbery Honor and Coretta Scott King Award-winner, and received four starred reviews with glowing praise from Jacqueline Woodson, Jason Reynolds, John Green and Meg Medina
- · In addition to her amazing awards, Renée has garnered major praise and attention recently for her non-profit organisation I, Too, Arts Collective, which focuses on creating spaces for emerging and established artists in Harlem
- This story has a unique premise as Renée's passion for Harlem shines. Her writing presents a diverse world that does not receive enough attention — the experience of young African-American girls navigating real contemporary life

Call It What You Want

Briaid Kemmerer

When his dad is caught embezzling funds from half the town, Rob goes from popular athlete to social pariah. Even worse, his father's failed suicide attempt leaves Rob and his mother responsible for his care.

Maegan always does the right thing. But when her sister comes home from college pregnant, Maegan is caught between telling their parents the truth about the father and keeping her sister's trust.

When Rob and Maegan are paired together for a project, they quickly form an unexpectedly deep connection. But when Maegan objects to Rob's plan to fix the damage caused by his father, it could ruin more than their new friendship ...

In her compulsively readable storytelling, Brigid Kemmerer pens another captivating, heartfelt novel that asks the question: Is it OK to do something wrong for the right reasons?

- · A new heart-wrenching contemporary romance by the author of Letters to the Lost, More Than We Can Tell and A Curse So Dark and Lonely
- · This compulsively readable YA will appeal to readers of Jennifer Niven and Nicola Yoon
- · Brigid Kemmerer's contemporary romance novel Letters to the Lost has now been translated into fifteen languages

A Curse So Dark and Lonely

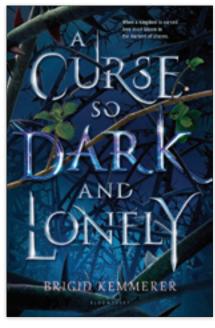

Brigid Kemmerer

In a lush, contemporary fantasy, Brigid Kemmerer gives readers another compulsively readable romance perfect for fans of Marissa Mever.

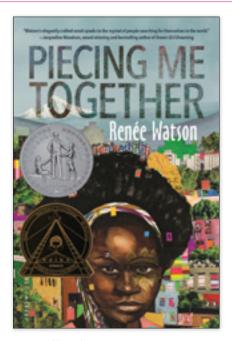

Prince Rhen is cursed. He spurned the wrong woman, and is now forced to repeat the autumn of his eighteenth year until he can convince another to love him. His fate would be bearable, except that as the season progresses, he transforms into a dangerous monster. Bitter and jaded after three hundred and twenty-seven autumns of failing to find love, he's left only with Grey, the commander of his guard. After his subjects learned to fear the castle on the hill, Rhen began to send Grey to find young women in other worlds.

Harper Lacy is cursed by reality. Her father is gone, and her mother is fighting to survive the cancer ravaging her body. Left to fend for herself, Harper has grown to be tough as nails. So when she witnesses Grey trying to abduct a woman from the streets of Washington, DC, she can't help but intervene, only to get sucked into Rhen's cursed world. Now, Harper is trapped. Rhen and Grey can't get her home, not without first breaking the curse. But when Harper proves to be more than just another girl to charm, Rhen realises he can do more than break the curse ... he can save his kingdom once and for all.

- · Packed with danger, mystery and romance, A Curse So Dark and Lonely is a major new global fantasy series due to launch in January 2019
- Between contemporary Washington, DC and Prince Rhen's vivid fantasy world, readers will be sucked into the dangerous and cursed fantasy world just as Harper Lacy is
- · With narration by two compelling and distinct voices, Brigid Kemmerer shows off her supreme talent for writing both male and female perspectives as she did in the Letters to the Lost
- · Brigid's contemporary romance novel Letters to the Lost has now been translated into fifteen languages
